Try not to become a man of success, but rather try to become a man of value - Albert Einstein

Humans have the ability to aspire, idealize, and create goals to shoot for. Without this ability, there would be no civilization.

As an individual, it is your own responsibility to aim for your own personal success. Stop searching for a purpose from external sources and aim to create this purpose from within you. With the right decisions, devotion, persistence, determination, and evaluation, you are more than capable of turning your vision and aspirations into reality. This is the power of the Success Blueprint.

What is Success?

Success can mean very different things for different people. Most people in modern society would automatically attribute success to wealth, romance, fame, and greatness. There are also some people who have selfless aspirations such as curing a disease, ending world hunger, saving the environment, or something simple like helping the family.

But is success really all about those things? Before you proceed with the 5 steps of the Success Blueprint, you must first understand what success truly means and why is it important to have your own definition of it. Despite the different ways people would describe success, we can be certain of one thing about it: attaining it equals having a purpose. Whether you like it or not, pursuing your own success should be the reason why you wake up every morning, work hard, and deal with all the difficulties in life. This is true even if you feel like your purpose is shallow and success in life is out of your reach, for it is only a matter of perception. This is why finding your own definition of success is similar to finding out your reason for living.
