Although they were staunch political rivals, Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton never debated one another outside of President Washington's Cabinet Meetings. In this volume, their differing views concerning four important issues are presented in own words. Drawing on their papers and correspondence, the Constitutionality of the National Bank, the Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions, President Jefferson's First Annual Message to Congress, and the Louisiana Purchase are discussed by each. There is an Introduction by the Editor, brief "Setting the Stage" pieces before each contribution, and an Afterword.
